Bay school board expected to name North Bay principal

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Bay St. Louis-Waveland School District is expected to name a principal for North Bay Elementary School Monday night.

At the board's regular meeting, which begins at 7 p.m. in the superintendent's boardroom at Bay Senior High School, Superintendent of Education Roger Oge' will offer the board his recommendation or recommendations for the position.

North Bay has been without a principal since the school's top administrator, Roger James, was reassigned to Bay Senior High School several weeks ago.

Oge' said Friday that 20 people had applied for the job.

He said he expects the discussion on the appointment to take place in executive session.

Also on Monday, the board is expected to approve its budget for the next fiscal year.

Two hearings have been held and Oge' said no objections to the budget proposal have been received.

According to Oge' and the district's business manager, Garland Cuevas, there is an increase in the $1,995,213 budget over this year's $1,791,878 budget but the additional amount does not involve any major new programs.

Instead, the increase is related to the impact of the Asbestos Hazard Emergency Removal Act; bleacher repair work; salary adjustments, much of which consist of state-mandated raises; an increase and equalization of monies spent for teaching supplies; and kindergarten bus transportation, which was previously provided but is now mandated by the state.

Public Service office opens in Pass Christian

BY D.C. HARVILL

Now, when residents of the Coast have problems with the companies that provide them with utilities they won't have to go far, because the recently appointed Public Service Commissioner for the Southern District has opened a satellite office in Pass Christian.

George Watson, a Pass Christian native, appointed to the four-year Commissioner's position, by Governor Ray Mabus when Lynn Havens resigned from the post in March, opened an office in Suite 201-202 of the Colonnade Building at 212 East Second Street in Pass Christian on July 1.

The Public Service Commission is a regulatory agency overseeing public utility companies in the state.

The Pass Christian office will be open weekdays from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. to field complaints and channel them to investigators or utilities companies, depending on the necessary action.

Watson said he will divide his time between the local office and the commission's main office in Jackson. He will be in the Pass on Mondays and Fridays.

"Since the Southern District is so large, an office is needed in the southern part of the state," Watson said. "The office used to be in Hattiesburg, but since my residence is in Pass Christian I thought the office should be opened here," he explained.

Watson, retired from the Pass Christian School System after 26 years of service, the last

Stennis Space Center remains in running for ASRM facility

BY DENA BISNETTE

John C. Stennis Space Center in Hancock County remains one of four locations being considered as a site for NASA's Advanced Solid Rocket Motor program (ASRM).

Three Hancock County representatives were among about 20 Gulf Coast and St. Tammany Parish, La., business and community leaders who met Saturday at the center with J.R. Thompson, director of Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville, Ala., according to Mack Herring, the center's public affairs officer.

Herring said presentations to Thompson were made by Hancock County Board of Supervisors President Ronald Cuevas and Bay St. Louis Mayor Victor Frankiewicz Jr. Both spoke regarding the support and services their communities can offer the ASRM program.

Also present to offer his support was Harold Olsen, executive director of the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission, as well as business leaders from such companies as Hancock Bank and Mississippi Power.

Herring said Thompson had brought his team to Stennis Space Center Saturday for a final inspection of the center as a candidate site for the ASRM program, as well as a meeting with Center Director Jerry Hlass and his staff and the briefing for the business and community leaders.

"We had a very high level meeting here today," Herring stated. "Thompson is responsible for the ASRM program and in that capacity he has the important responsibility to make the decision for site location."

After Thompson selects the ASRM site, the decision must be confirmed by NASA headquarters.

The briefing with the business and community leaders was designed to show how the Gulf Coast community can support the program in areas such as education, municipal services, labor and housing availability, and medical, cultural and recreational resources.

Herring said Thompson briefed the meeting participants in some detail regarding the ASRM, a major component of the space shuttle vehicle.

According to Herring, two of the ASRMs are attached to the external tank of the vehicle and to the shuttle main engines on the aft section of the orbiter. The ASRMs provide the thrust to lift the shuttle vehicle off the launching pad and continue to burn for a little more than two minutes, after which the shuttle engines take over to propel the vehicle into orbit.

The ASRM cases are parachuted into the ocean, recovered and reused.

Thompson said several major solid propellant contractors are looking at three government-owned sites, including Stennis Space Center, Yellow Creek in northern Mississippi and Kennedy Space Center in Florida, and a fourth site near Montgomery, Ala., as candidates for an ASRM-producing facility.

According to Thompson, the new facility would be much more automated than the presently used ASRM facility, Morton Thiokol in Utah, which is more than 30 years old. The new facility is expected to improve the shuttle's safety, payload capacity, performance and reliability.

The new ASRM facility, for which Stennis Space Center has offered a site north of two of the test stands used to test-fire the shuttle main engines, would be designed to continue operations for at least two decades.

Thompson said in the meeting that the manufacturing and testing facilities, when operational, would provide between 1,500 and 2,000 jobs.

Construction, planned for a June 1989 start, is expected to cost between $200 million and $300 million and create about 1,000 jobs during the peak of the project.

Cost estimates indicate an additional $200 million to expand the plant, which is expected to be completed in 1992 with the first flight motor scheduled for delivery in 1994.

Herring stated that an additional factor which could influence the selection of Stennis Space Center would be community support for the facility.

MHP's Mickey Ladner promoted to major

JACKSON—Three Mississippi Highway Patrol officers including Bay St. Louis native Michael "Mickey" Ladner, have been promoted to the rank of major and named to key positions of leadership within the agency.

The new majors, Jay F. Clark, Lewis T. Younger Jr., and Ladner, who all formerly held the rank of captain, tested against nine other fellow officers who had applied for the positions.

Effective July 1, Clark is the Department of Public Safety's chief criminal investigator; Younger is the Highway Patrol's traffic coordinator, and Ladner is chief inspector of the patrol's southern enforcement region.

Together they have a total of 58 years service as officers of the Mississippi Highway Patrol.

Three of the most crucial positions in this agency have been filled by three of our most qualified officers," said Louisa O. Dixon, interim commissioner of public safety.

The wide range of law enforcement experience each of these officers has will serve this agency and the public well. They have attained outstanding performance records in their jobs as protectors of this state's citizens," she added.

MAJOR JAY F. CLARK

Clark, as the Department of Public Safety's chief criminal investigator, will supervise and coordinate activities of the Criminal Investigation Bureau, Internal Affairs and Protection Services Division.

Clark, 43, of Senatobia, has been serving as acting director of the patrol's Criminal Investigation Bureau (CIB) since January.

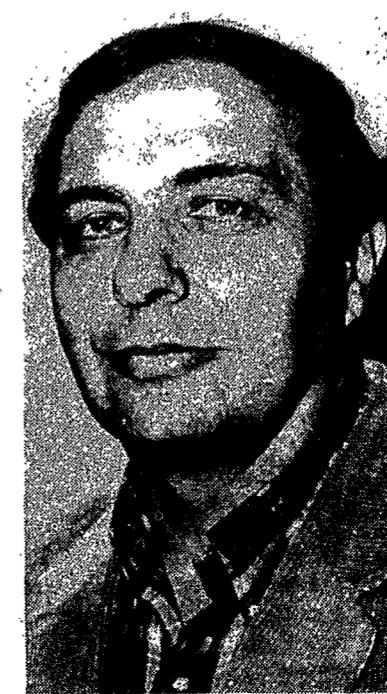

The newly promoted Clark was commissioned into the Highway Patrol after graduating from the Mississippi Law Enforcement Officers Training Academy in 1968 and assigned to the Batesville District.

He became an investigator in 1975. That same year he was

What is a good sunscreen preparation? — D.T.

Look for a sunscreen product with a Sun Protection Factor (SPF) of at least 15. While UVB rays cause most sunburns as well as premature skin aging and skin cancer, scientists are now looking more closely at UVA rays. UVA rays are suspected of causing problems similar to UVB's, plus others like drug photosensitivity. SPF 15 protects against almost all UVB and UVA rays. PreSun 15 and Coppertone Super Shade are examples of sunscreening products with an SPF of 15.

It makes good sense to treat yourself when the ailment is "self-limiting." Examples are: a cold, bruise, and constipation. Anything more serious or any symptom whose cause is unknown should be treated by a professional. Before you take any medicine for self-treatment, read ALL of the label.

One of the alternatives Chevron is considering is increasing the amount of water that is reused, despite the lower quality. Shipping water to the plant is another consideration, which although it has never been done at the Pascagoula plant, has been used at other Chevron facilities Shanks said.

"In the 25 years of operation, we have never curtailed operation because of a low river level," Shanks said. Chevron does not have a reserve of water for use instead of or in addition to the river.

"As the river lowers, it doesn't fall as rapidly," Shanks said. "If we get any rain, we should be alright."

Branch said his department is closely monitoring most of the state's rivers and streams as they approach very low flows. Because so many variables must be considered—rainfall, evaporation rates, amounts of replenishing from drain-offs—there is no way to predict levels in the future, he said.

"If we have a normal Mississippi summer, the worse is still ahead," Branch said.

Farmers are not the only ones watching the state's water supplies. Many industries are dependent on rivers for power or cooling.

"If the farmer's gone—we're gone," said Chris Paul, general manager of New South Industries (formerly Mississippi Chemical Corp.). New South is located on the Pascagoula River in south Mississippi.

"If the river drops below the level for our use, we will have to completely shut down," Paul said. "That would mean a temporary lay-off of workers."

Chevron USA is facing similar problems on the Pascagoula and exploring alternatives to the river, according to Larry Shanks, manager of operations.

"We use about a barrel of water for every barrel of crude processed," Shanks said. "Without water we would not be able to operate. But, we don't intend to shut down—there's too much depending on our operation."

Industries depending on the state's rivers are holding their breath as water levels drop as a result of this summer's early drought.

We've got the kind of conditions in mid-June that is normal for October and November," said Charles Branch, director of the Bureau of Land and Water Resources. "And, we've still got 90 days of summer ahead."

Animal Commissioner, Longo answer views from Humane Society

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County Animal Commission is contending that a proposal the Waveland Board of Aldermen has been asked to consider is designed to reduce the number of commissioners, not "run the Humane Society out."

In addition, Waveland Mayor John Longo Jr. has stated that the alderman have not, as has been previously reported, asked for a draft of the proposal, which would take two Humane Society representatives off the commission.

Instead, Longo said the board had agreed to consider such a resolution if commission officers would first go before the Hancock County Board of Supervisors and the Bay St. Louis City Council to see if those entities would favor such a move.

Commission Treasurer Ardley Hanemann, in reply to statements by Humane Society President Thyla Rogers that were published in Thursday's Sea Coast Echo, explained the commission's views Friday.

The commission presently has 15 members and has already approved a move to reduce that number to 11 through attrition, Commissioner Mike Benvenutti has stated. According to Hanemann, however, the two Humane Society representatives who would remain after that proposal becomes effective are not needed on the commission.

Most of the commissioners are already society members, including Hanemann himself.

Rogers, who will be a candidate for commission in October, advocates reforms at the county animal shelter including such practices as providing animals with baths and blankets and taking dogs for outside walks, and eventually a no-kill shelter.

She also contends that the society has provided funds to the shelter other than half of an attendant's monthly salary.

Hanemann said the commissioners asked the aldermen to consider reducing the size of the commission to nine, with three members each appointed by the cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland and the board of Supervisors. The three entities share the responsibility of funding the facility by contributing $400 a month each.

He explained that the Humane Society has had representation on the commission before, but alleged that the current group of representatives "keeps nitpicking" and that "they have never contributed anything, even in the way of knowledge, that is useful."

"Roads" final destination of the evening is Senatobia, where viewers catch an impromptu performance by Otha Turner and his Fife and Drum Corps.

The self-taught Turner, along with corps members Bernice Evans, James Wright and James Archie, play original music that is a combination of old spirituals and fife and drum corps marches.

Turner tells how his fife is made and how he discovered the instrument and learned to play it.

Art, music and nature featured on 'Roads'

A field day for foresters, a group of modern artists and traditional fife music are featured in an encore broadcast of "Mississippi Roads," Tuesday, July 19, at 7:30 p.m. on Mississippi ETV.

The first stop along "Mississippi Roads" takes viewers to Mississippi State University for the biannual Forestry Field Day. The competition consists of 15 events such as log rolling, log notching, pole felling and climbing, and dendrology, which is the identification of tree species. Mississippi State's Forestry Field Day qualifies contestants to attend to Forestry Conclave, a 30-year-old regional competition in forestry skills.

Viewers meet forestry student Bo Sloan of Tupelo, coordinator of the event, who describes the competitions and their purposes as related to the study of forestry. Donna Geisler of Starkville, forestry student and former coordinator, discusses how the event is organized. Finally, Dr. Bruce Leopold, Assistant Professor, Department of Wildlife and Fisheries, discusses local wildlife as viewers see bobcat kittens being studied in captivity.

Next, "Mississippi Roads" travels to Tupelo and the studio to married artists Ke and Jean Francis. These nationally exhibited artists work in a variety of media, from paper to metal. The Francises describe their individual artistic styles and the support they draw from each other, as well as the influence of the community of Tupelo on their art.

Bach's Sonata in E flat is performed by flutist Albert Lamar and harpsichordist John Paul at the Lauren Rogers Museum of Art in Laurel. This performance was recorded February 8, 1987.

The University of Southern Mississippi Chorale, conducted by Marshall A. Hill, performs the Bach motet Jesu, meine Freude (Jesus, Dearest Master), which was recorded April 19, 1988, at the Main Street Methodist Church in Hattiesburg.

Pianist Logan Skelton, a native of Biloxi, performs the Prelude and Fugue in C sharp minor from The Well-Rounded Clavier, Book One. This performance was recorded June 23, 1988, at the Mississippi Piano Showcase at Mississippi State University.

"They are running me out of space at the shelter. They want a no-kill shelter and that would take acres and acres," he added, speaking of the society.

The mayor said that if the matter can not be resolved, he will order the shelter temporarily closed.

A recent incident in our business community in which a resident was very seriously injured shows the need for bicycle riders to be made aware of a Bay St. Louis Ordinance.

The ordinance states "...No person shall ride a bicycle upon a sidewalk within a business district."

The ordinance further states in areas where sidewalk bicycling is allowed "...Whenever any person is riding a bicycle upon a sidewalk, such person shall yield the right-of-way to any pedestrian and shall give audible signal before overtaking and passing a pedestrian."

"...No person shall operate a bicycle unless it is equipped with a bell or other device capable of giving a signal audible for a distance of at least one hundred (100) feet, except that a bicycle shall not be equipped with nor shall any person use upon a bicycle any siren or whistle."

We are sure there are many bikers who are unaware of the above rules.

We know most bike riders are very courteous, yet just like anything else, there are a few who do not look out for the well being of others.

We hope all parents will advise their children in the proper ways to ride a bike, and the importance of observing all of the rules of the road.

The County Food Pantry does an outstanding job in providing food for deserving people.

Duties in the operations of the Food Pantry are handled by members of many of our community churches.

An added dimension to the Food Pantry is now to provide books to children.

The books like the food distributed by the Food Pantry are all donated and The Bookends Book Store is acting as coordinator.

The organization is in need of used books for children and they will really be appreciated.

If you have some children's books you no longer need, contact The Bookends.

Highway Patrol to issue youth ID cards

JACKSON—Effective July 1, the Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol will be allowed to issue color photo-bearing identification cards to persons 13 years of age or older.

Prior to the 1988 Session of the Mississippi Legislature, only persons who had not been issued a Mississippi driver's license were eligible to receive an identification card.

"We are pleased to offer this service to the citizens of Mississippi," said Capt. Ron Ford, director of the Highway Patrol's field operations division.

"There are many situations when only an authentic, legal identification card will suffice. I think having a place to obtain an identification card will help a lot of people," he said.

Ford said identification cards will be valid for four years from the date of issuance and cost $13. They will be the same size as a driver's license. "State of Mississippi" on the card will be black, instead of red as on a driver's license, and the words "Identification Card" will be green.

Persons applying for an identification card will be required to present a social security card and a birth certificate to driver's license examining personnel.

The President's Column

THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

The Economic Summit and Nicaragua

By Ronald Reagan

Seven years ago, as a newly elected President, I traveled to Canada for my first economic summit with the leaders of the other major industrial democracies. I am writing this just before I will attend my eighth and final economic summit, and it is remarkable to think how much things have changed.

When I took office, unemployment was climbing, inflation was soaring, Federal spending was out of control, and interest rates had topped 20 percent. The economic mess we faced was clear.

And it was also clear that without a recovery in the United States, there was little chance for the world economy to get back on its feet. The world stood, as one foreign leader put it, in "the trough of the recession," faced with the "twin evils of inflation and unemployment." It was, as another head of government said at the time, "one of the most difficult periods of the Western industrialized countries." The question was what to do.

And that was when we presented a bold new program of cutting tax rates and excessive regulation, opening world markets, and letting the private sector lead the way to economic expansion.

Today we are in the longest peacetime economic expansion on record. We have created nearly 17 million jobs in the last five and a half years. That is twice as many new jobs as the other six summit countries combined—and those countries have a working-age population that is over 60 percent larger than the United States.

But our own prosperity is only part of our achievement. We have also led the world toward a remarkable consensus that economic freedom—not state planning and intervention—holds the key to growth and development. Yes, the other industrial democracies have joined us on this path. But it goes further than that.

From India to Argentina, from Africa to China, and even in the Soviet Union, the shackles of state economic domination are beginning to loosen. So in winning this battle of ideas, we are helping to enrich and liberate the working people and entrepreneurs of the entire world.

And at the Toronto summit, we are going to work together to make sure that this great "Venture to Progress" continues. That means further opening the international marketplace and increasing the coordination of our policies. That means bringing the newly industrialized countries into the full and mature place in the world trading system that they have earned.

And it also means working together, however, to put an end to one type of trade: Illegal drug trafficking.

So these topics and others, such as the rebuilding of Afghanistan and the Philippines, international debt, and agricultural subsidies, these will be on the Toronto agenda.

But before I travel across our northern border to Canada, I would like to address a situation south of our border in Central America. This is a problem that is close to home and that demands our strong attention.

Back on February 3rd this year, the Congress, by just an eight-vote margin, took a dangerous gamble with our national security and the prospects for democracy in Central America. You see, on that day the House of Representatives voted down my request to continue effective support for the Nicaraguan freedom fighters.

The opponents of aid argued that they were giving peace a chance, by unilaterally disarming the freedom fighters. But today, the Nicaraguan talks are at an impasse, the victim of the Sandinistas' bad faith and Congress' bad judgment. The leaders of the resistance who courageously went to Managua to seek concrete democratic freedoms were instead subjected to lies, abuse, harassment, and threats of physical harm by the communist government. Costa Rican President Arias said that the democratization that was required of Nicaragua "has not happened," citing Sandinista "intransigence."

The Sandinistas have proved repeatedly that they will not democratize without pressure. As they have shown at Contadora, Manzanillo, San Jose, Esquipulas, and Sapoa: Peace talks not them are just political theatre, a way to weaken the democratic resistance while consolidating their militant Communist regime.

I have warned that if we fail in Nicaragua we could one day face a Communist Central America spreading subversion northward and southward. As I said in 1984, this would pose "the threat that a 100 million people from Panama to the open border of our South could come under the control of pro-Soviet regimes."

That is why we must work for a free Nicaragua. Even The Washington Post, in an editorial last Sunday, urged one key faction of House Democrats to "stop chasing ghosts and playing political games..." We can still secure peace and freedom in Central America, but time is growing short and the stakes ever larger. If we fail to act in time, the American people will demand to know why.

Matters of Health

Liposuction

Q. I am a 35-year-old woman in good health and am considering a surgical procedure called liposuction to remove some fat from under my chin. Am I a good candidate for this procedure?

A. Liposuction or suction assisted lipectomy, a surgical method of contouring the body, has become the most common form of cosmetic surgery performed in the U.S.

The surgery was introduced in Europe and has been performed in this country since 1982.

Liposuction usually involves the removal of less than 1,500 grams of fat, or about three pounds.

The procedure isn't a way to lose weight, rather, it can be used to eliminate a "double chin" remove "love handles" from the trunk and excess fat from upper thighs, or slim the upper arms.

While it is performed most often on the face, it also can be used in conjunction with the facelift—a more extensive procedure.

During liposuction, a physician—usually a plastic surgeon—makes a small incision in the skin and inserts a long hollow tube, called a cannula, into a fatty region of the body.

The cannula is rotated a bit to loosen pockets of fat, which are suctioned out with a pump.

People who are under the age of 40 and in good health already meet two of the important criteria for undergoing liposuction.

The surgeon also will want to make sure that one's skin is elastic enough to conform to a new contour.

Liposuction may not be safe on people with high blood pressure, heart disease, diabetes or other chronic health problems, nor is it performed on anyone who is obese.

Liposuction can be a brief and simple office procedure that is performed under a local anesthetic, or it can require one to two hours, general anesthesia and hospitalization.

Major surgery can require up to several weeks of limited activity and several months of recovery.

The procedure generally costs between $1,000 and $5,000, and it's not covered by medical insurance.

Pain, bruising and discoloration are common after surgery.

Depressions or indentations might appear where the fat had been located, or the skin may look wavy or baggy, particularly when the procedure is done on the thigh.

Occasionally, additional plastic surgery is needed to reshape the skin.

Liposuction is not without risk. Blood vessels may be torn or other internal structures can be injured while the fat is being loosened.

Some physicians believe that the broken-down fat cells can travel through the bloodstream and create a clot in the arteries or lungs, although there is some controversy surrounding this view.

Other hazards include infection and fluid depletion.

The popularity of liposuction has led plastic surgeons to experiment with removing fat from one area and transplanting it to another, with some success.

However, the procedure is not as easy as it sounds. Transplanted cells often die, making repeated treatments necessary.

Scarring and infection can result and fat transplants to the breasts can interfere with detection of breast cancer.

If one's physician agrees he or she is a good candidate for liposuction, any decision to do so should be carefully weighed.

It's wise not to expect miracles from plastic surgery. Liposuction may indeed change one's appearance for the better, but it probably will not alter one's life dramatically.

This 'Matter of Health' was prepared in cooperation with the plastic surgeons on staff at The University Hospital—the teaching hospital for the University of Mississippi Medical Center.

Readers may suggest future topics by writing to 'Matters of Health,' the University of Mississippi Medical Center, 2500 North State Street, Jackson, MS 39216-4505.

Ask Ochsner

Q. My husband has been diagnosed as having cirrhosis of the liver. He rarely consumes alcoholic beverages and I thought that cirrhosis was caused by drinking alcohol excessively. Can you explain this?

A. Dr. Luis A. Balart, a gastroenterologist at the Ochsner Clinic in New Orleans, explains that cirrhosis is a general term used to describe a group of chronic diseases of the liver which decrease normal liver function.

The fact that only 10 to 15 percent of alcoholics develop cirrhosis suggests that other factors may affect the impact of alcohol on the liver. For example, the typical alcoholic patient with cirrhosis has had a daily consumption of a pint or more of whiskey per day, (or its equivalent in wine or beer) for at least 10 years. Such an individual could still only have a one-third chance of developing cirrhosis from alcohol consumption.

"Of course, the amount of damage from alcohol consumption varies with each individual patient. For some, drinking on occasion will not cause chronic liver injury, but for others, very small amounts of alcohol could be harmful," says Balart.

Cirrhosis does not always exhibit symptoms at the onset. As the condition progresses and worsens, patients may experience loss of appetite, nausea and vomiting, weight loss, itching, jaundice and fluid accumulation.

Although chronic alcoholism is clearly a common cause of cirrhosis of the liver, there are various types of cirrhosis that have nothing to do with alcohol. Liver damage can occur as result of other causes such as several types of viral hepatitis, congenital or inherited conditions, severe reactions to drugs, prolonged exposure to environmental toxins and other diseases.

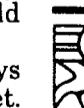

Treatment depends on the type of cirrhosis and to what extent it has progressed. In alcoholic cirrhosis, abstinence from alcohol would be essential along with a good wholesome diet.

"As with any serious disease, early and appropriate medical care can decrease long-term complications caused by liver injury," adds Balart.

Heart Answers

WHAT IS HARDENING
OF THE ARTERIES?

A common form of hardening of the arteries is atherosclerosis. It occurs when fatty deposits in the bloodstream build up on the inner walls of the arteries. People who have atherosclerosis are more likely to suffer a heart attack or stroke. The risk of developing atherosclerosis can be reduced by observing a diet low in saturated fats and cholesterol. By Mark Jamieson
County Forester

In this series of articles we're looking at insects and diseases that damage trees in Mississippi. Today's column concerns the pales weevil—the most serious insect pest of pine seedlings in the eastern United States.

Pales weevils, which attack all species of conifers, including pines, are attracted in great numbers to freshly cut over pine lands, where they breed in stumps and old root systems. Seedlings planted in freshly cut areas are injured or killed by adult weevils that feed on the stem bark.

Adult weevils usually feed on the above-ground bark tissue of the stems of seedlings. Feeding below the root collar also occurs, especially on planted seedlings that have loosely packed roots. Bark is eaten down to the wood.

When feeding is light, small, isolated patches of bark are removed. Whitish, crystallized resin forms over the wounds, giving the seedlings a sugary appearance.

When feeding is heavy, large patches of bark are removed, which may girdle and kill the seedling. If girdling occurs quickly, no resin forms in the wound, and the stem wood appears dry and bare.

When weevils are numerous, the seedling will be completely stripped, leaving bare, curled stems surrounded at the base by a pile of detached needles.

On saplings and larger trees, feeding is restricted to the bark of twigs near the ends of branches. The twigs might be girdled. When the needles die the branches have red tips.

This type of injury is common on trees growing in or around harvested areas and on seedlings and saplings growing under bark beetle-killed trees.

The danger of pales weevil damage is slight in trees planted on open land, cut over hardwood land, or pine land that was cut prior to the July before planting season.

There are two simple solutions to beating the pales weevil on pine sites cut after July: First, don't plant it that winter; allow the land to remain idle for one planting season so the weevils will have time to leave.

The second alternative is to direct seed it the winter after it was cut. The weevils will be gone by the time the direct-seeded trees are big enough to be fed upon.

Challenger families promote space future

By Linda S. Moore
Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service

Families of the crew of the space shuttle Challenger are working to establish a math and science educational center to renew interest in space exploration among America's youth.

"We are seeking to establish a living tribute to the crew, focusing on the way they lived, not on the way they died," Jane Smith, wife of Challenger pilot Mike Smith, said at the State Extension Homemaker's Council meeting. Smith said she was representing all the families of the crew when she spoke recently at Mississippi State University.

The keynote speaker at the first general session of the annual meeting, Smith addressed about 700 members of the state homemakers' clubs, which make up the largest educational organization for adult women in Mississippi.

"This type of memorial is the best way to remember the crew—much more appropriate than a brick and mortar statue," Smith said.

Smith said that after the space shuttle disaster on Jan. 28, 1986, the families channeled their energies into the establishment of the Challenger Center.

"The Challenger Center is our way of giving something back to the children," Smith said. "The crew believed in the future of our children. If Mike and the crew were here today they'd say 'Press on.'

The center is an attempt to increase science and math literacy among young people, promote teamwork through group problem solving, maintain America's technological strength, renew support for the space program and ensure its future workforce.

Pilot projects using the newly developed curriculum for grades 4 through 9 will be tested in schools this fall near the Johnson Space Center in Houston, Texas, home of Mission Control.

Once established, the center will consist of a space-life station in Washington, D.C., to be completed in 1991, which will be the hub of the Challenger Center, and regional centers called mission sites. Participating schools and museums, called affiliate satellites, will make the program locally accessible.

When completed, 50,000 teachers and 500,000 students will be able to participate in a simulated space experience and training each year.

About $3.2 million has been raised for the center with a total goal of $30 million. For more information, the center's toll-free number is 1-800-533-6310. Contributions may be sent to the Challenger Center for Space Science Education, P.O. Box 90077, Washington, D.C., 20090.

Vehicles used to transport illegal aliens can be seized

NEW ORLEANS, La.—Employers who use personal or company vehicles to transport undocumented aliens run the risk of having their vehicles seized, immigration officials warned.

"We have the authority under federal law to seize any type of vehicle used to smuggle illegal aliens into this country or used to transport them once they are in the U.S., and we will exercise that authority," said John B.Z. Caplinger, director of the New Orleans District of the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS).

Caplinger's caution to employers comes as INS officers begin full enforcement of a new immigration law which makes it illegal for employers to hire undocumented alien workers.

The law, enacted on Nov. 6, 1986, requires all employers to verify the identity and employment eligibility of all employees hired after that date on a form called the I-9. The law carries stiff penalties for employers who fail to complete the form or who knowingly and willfully hire undocumented workers.

"We already have several vehicles in our fleet which were seized from people attempting to smuggle or transport illegal aliens," Caplinger said.

"With the increased emphasis brought by employer sanctions, the possibility that employers who transport illegal aliens will have their vehicles seized also increases. The seizure of a vehicle, along with the fines involved, can be a costly way for employers to learn they cannot violate the law."

Caplinger said that vehicles seized are either used by INS or sold at auction.

Ask Ochsner

NEW ORLEANS—A new drug for the treatment of the symptoms of Alzheimer's disease is being tested at the Ochsner Clinic in New Orleans.

Alzheimer's is a brain disease in which victims suffer a progressive loss of memory and other intellectual and social abilities.

Ochsner is the only testing site in Louisiana and is one of only 15 centers nationwide conducting the research.

"The drug being tested is tetrahydro-a-minoacridin (HPO29), and for patients with Alzheimer's disease and their families, it may represent a glimmer of hope that didn't exist before," says Dr. Richard L. Strub, a neurologist and the physician in charge of the study.

The drug acts as a chemical inhibitor and prevents the breakdown of acetylcholine, a chemical produced in the brain cells in Alzheimer's disease. It is hoped that this drug will allow these cells to work at maximum efficiency, decreasing the clinical symptoms," says Dr. Strub.

"The group of patients currently being tested is restricted to those over 70 years of age. The patients also have mild to moderate Alzheimer's disease and do not have other significant medical or psychiatric disease," he points out. In addition, the participation in the study requires commitment from the patient and his family.

Once treatment is initiated, the patient must have someone to administer the proper dosage and transport the patient to the clinic on a weekly basis for periods of 14 weeks.

Patients are given the drug orally in capsule form. For the first six weeks, various doses of the drug and placebos are given.

The dose at which the patient exhibits the most improvement in Alzheimer's symptoms then determines the dosage to be taken for the rest of the 14 week period.

Each week, the patient goes through a regimen of testing, which includes memory assessment and other measures of cognitive abilities.

"These tests act as the measurement of improvement," says Vicki Cahanin, clinical coordinator of the research study being sponsored by the Hoechst-Roussel Pharmaceutical Company, the manufacturer of the drug.

"In addition to skills testing, an EKG and other laboratory tests are obtained to monitor the possible side effects of the drug."

"We need to emphasize that this drug has only been approved for experimental use by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration for this 14-week clinical trial," Dr. Strub adds.

"After the study is completed, the results will be submitted to the FDA for further approval. We are quite optimistic that the results will be sufficient to continue research in this area."

Presbyterians to continue Grass Roots Peace Crusade with Commissioning Service

BY EDGAR PEREZ

Members of the First Presbyterian Church in Bay St. Louis Sunday will participate in a Commission Service marking the continuation of a World Wide Grass Roots Peace Crusade originated in November 1986.

Retired Presbyterian minister Dwyne Mounger of Bay St. Louis and retired NASA attorney Ed Ling of Waveland will participate in a peace mission Aug. 6-15 to Hong Kong, Beijing and Nanjing, China.

The local pair will be joined on the trip by some 14 students and faculty members of Belhaven College in Jackson.

Sunday's service in Bay St. Louis—to be conducted by First Presbyterian Pastor Richard Jones—is designed as a send-off blessing for those making the trip to China.

The three year old Peace Crusade pursues two primary goals, Mounger pointed out: "To restore 'Peace Day' holiday in the United States and to extend the observance worldwide, and

"To establish lines of communication with other nations, particularly with Russia, the Soviet Eastern Bloc, and with the communist nations of Asia. "From Nov. 11, 1918 until 1953 we observed Armistice Day or Peace Day in the U.S.," Mounger noted.

"That holiday became Veterans Day, and we would like to see a new holiday to be observed as 'Peace Day' established by the Congress," Mounger continued.

"At this time there is no holiday or observance common to all nations on Earth. We could meet that need by the establishment of a world-wide Peace Day," the cleric feels.

"Our forthcoming trip to the Far East falls under the aegis of the crusade's second objective, but we will also explore the possibility of the holiday while we are in China," Mounger added.

Sunday's 10:30 a.m. service at the church in the 100 block of Ulman Avenue is open to the public.

Ladner pier to open in August

BY DENA BISNETTE

An extension to the Garfield Ladner Memorial Pier is expected to open in August.

Waveland Mayor John Longo Jr. said the pier, which will be lighted and have running water for drinking fountains and fish-cleaning areas, will be dedicated in an Aug. 27 ceremony being arranged in conjunction with Waveland's 1988 centennial celebration.

The extension, being built with grant funds, will be patrolled by a ranger to insure that the facility will be safe for users and free from damage by vandals.

Plans include the hiring of two full-time rangers to collect fees, assist pier users and generally maintain order, with part-time rangers to be added during special events and holidays.

Temporary restrooms will be available and permanent facilities will be built in a later phase of the project.

Longo said he has been disturbed by incorrect reports regarding the fees set for use of the pier.

Although the board of aldermen had originally discussed using two sets of fees, one for residents and one for non-residents, the final decision set only a single set of prices. Day use will be $3. An annual family permit may be purchased for $12 and includes all minor children living at home, Longo said.

The mayor said permits are being printed and should be available in the next few weeks from the city tax office, located downstairs in city hall.

Other locations for sale of the permits are still being considered.

The mayor explained that the fees are being charged to cover the costs of maintenance, insurance and the rangers' salaries.

Clark was promoted to senior investigator of the Batesville District in 1981, a position he held until being named northern region investigator in 1987, which carried the rank of captain.

He represented the CIB as Trooper of the Year for 1980.

Thirteen of the 20 years he has served with the Highway Patrol have been spent either as an investigator or supervisor in the Criminal Investigation Bureau.

From 1963-69, Clark served in the Mississippi National Guard where he earned the rank of sergeant.

He was graduated from North Panola High School in Sardis, and the Federal Bureau of Investigation National Academy in Quantico, Va.

He also attended Northwest and Hinds junior colleges, and the University of Virginia.

MAJOR YOUNGER

As traffic coordinator, Younger will organize enforcement activities between the two regions of the patrol's uniform division.

Younger, 37, of Jackson, was commissioned a Highway Patrol trooper in September 1972 after graduating from the Mississippi Law Enforcement Officers' Training Academy.

From 1978 until 1980, he served as physical training officer and instructor for four highway patrol cadet classes in training at the academy.

In July 1980, Younger was appointed as an internal affairs investigator, and promoted later that year into the position of criminal investigator within the patrol's Criminal Investigation Bureau stationed in Vicksburg.

After two years as an investigator, Young became a first line supervisor in the enforcement division which carries the rank of master sergeant.

Following merit promotion system testing in November 1986, Younger was promoted into the commander's position with the rank of captain.

He served as commander of the eight-county Jackson District of the Highway Patrol until his recent promotion to major.

Younger's outstanding achievements in law enforcement were recognized in 1988 when he was named by Jackson's Concerned Officers for Progress to receive their coveted 'J-COP' award. The organization is a member of the National Black Police Officers' Association.

Younger is a 1968 graduate of N. D. Taylor High School in Yazoo City, and attended Jackson State University from 1968 until 1972 where he majored in business administration.

Since joining the Highway Patrol, he has received specialized law enforcement training at the School of Police Supervision at Southwestern Police Foundation of the University of Texas in Dallas; Federal Drug Enforcement Administration's School of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs; Federal Bureau of Investigation's Executive Development Seminar; Emergency Response Course at the Nevada Test Site; National Rifle Association's Firearms Instructors Course, and the Emergency Vehicle Operations Course.

Younger and his wife, the former Robbie Kay Patrick, of Marks, have a daughter, Kristen Andrea, and a son, Lewis III.

They attend Lintonia Chapel A.M.E. Church in Yazoo City, where his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Younger Sr., reside.

MAJOR MICKEY LADNER

Major Ladner is in charge of the 45-county southern region of the Mississippi Highway Patrol as chief inspector.

The southern region consists of the Jackson, Meridian, Hattiesburg, Gulfport and Brookhaven Highway Patrol districts.

The position was formerly held by Billie T. Hughes, who was named assistant Highway Patrol chief in January.

Ladner, 48, has demonstrated expertise in a number of duty assignments within the agency since being commissioned in 1966 upon graduating from the Mississippi Law Enforcement Officers' Training Academy.

In addition to performing the duties of a trooper in the Starkville and Gulfport Highway Patrol districts, Ladner has served in the protective services division and worked for a brief period at the Mississippi Crime Laboratory.

In 1975, he was promoted into the position of investigator in the Criminal Investigation Bureau (CIB), which he represented as statewide Trooper of the Year in 1983.

In 1984, he was promoted into the rank of captain and placed in charge of the investigators in the southern CIB region.

He returned to the enforcement division in 1986 as commander of the six-county Gulfport District, where he remained until mid-1987, when he was reassigned to CIB.

In May of 1988, Ladner was named Statewide Coordinator of the patrol's Traveling Criminal Apprehension Program.

A graduate of the FBI National Academy in Quantico, Va., Ladner was also graduated from Hazardous Explosive Device School at Redstone Arsenal in Alabama and Advanced Surveillance Techniques School at the Florida Law Enforcement Academy.

He serviced from 1958 until 1960 as a computer programmer in the United States Navy.

Ladner was graduated from St. Stanislaus High School and attended Jeff Davis Junior College and Mississippi State University.

He and his wife, the former Sherry Anne Brown, daughter of Mrs. Noreen Brown of Lufkin, have two daughters, Emily and Sarah. They are members of Long Beach Methodist Church.

Berry-Sonier

Sylvia Jeanne Sonier became the bride of Vance Bernard Berry in an afternoon ceremony May 28 at First Baptist Church in Bay St. Louis. The Reverend Jimmy Hill of Calvary Baptist Church in Columbia, Miss. officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is a daughter of Lauren J. Sonier of Bay St. Louis and Mrs. Beatrice L. Morin of St. Bernard, La. The groom's parents are Homer B. (Billy) Berry of Foxworth, Miss. and Mrs. Yvonne P. Berry of Columbia.

Magnolia leaves, florettes and aqua bows adorned the altar, which was flanked by two arrangements of white stock, fuchsia mums, carnations, roses and baby's breath. A brass candelabrum held a unity candle.

Nuptial music was presented by Kim Reed, pianist, and Debbie Stuart, soloist.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Norman J. Sonier, the bride wore a formal gown of satin and Schiffli embroidery, fashioned with fitted bodice with heavy beading and V-neckline with deeply V-d back.

The full satin skirt was trimmed with hand-clipped embroidered medallions and satin baby ruffles extending to cathedral length. She wore a single strand of pearls, a gift from the groom, and a beaded silk floral headpiece sprinkled with pearls with an elbow length veil of illusion.

The bride carried a cascade of white bridal roses, stephanotis, gardenias, lily-of-the-valley, mini-carnations, stock and baby's breath with English ivy, pearls, lace and satin streamers.

Danita Scianna of Bay St. Louis was maid of honor.

Bridesmaids were Melissa M. Sonier and Laurie J. Mauron of Bay St. Louis, and Elizabeth A. Morin of St. Bernard, La., all sisters of the bride; and Andrea D. Berry of Columbia, sister of the groom.

Mandy Richardson of Bay St. Louis was flower girl.

The attendants were identically attired in formal gowns of aqua taffeta, each with sweetheart neckline trimmed with embroidery, princess bodice and basque waistline with large puffed sleeves. Wide ruffles outlined the hemlines.

They carried lace fans adorned with white and aqua silk blossoms, roses, dogwood, lily-of-the-valley and silver ribbons with pearls interspersed throughout.

Ricky McKenzie of Sandy Hook, Miss. was best man.

Groomsmen were Steve Foxworth and Bob Cook of Foxworth, Miss.; Joey Luttrell of Columbia; and Stanley Maurer of Bay St. Louis, brother-in-law of the bride.

Ushers were Joey Allen of Brookhaven, Miss., and John Berry of Sandy Hook, cousin of the groom.

A reception followed the ceremony at the church fellowship hall.

On return from a wedding trip to Nashville, Tenn., the couple will reside in Columbia.

Program focuses on providing appropriate treatment

"The concept that you have to be totally stripped of your dignity to be able to start recovering from substance abuse is false," says Dr. A. Kenison Roy, certified addictionologist.

"You can begin recovering at any point in your addiction."

Each patient receives personalized care, including therapy, one-on-one and group counseling, and extensive education regarding the nature of their illness.

According to Dr. Roy, chemical dependency crosses all cultural and socio-economic boundaries. "You get people in a treatment center, clean them up, cut their hair, and they all look the same. They all say, 'I don't have anything wrong with me,' and I wouldn't know what a feeling was if it bit me on the leg."

Detoxification—the first phase of treatment in the DEAR program—is facilitated through a wide variety of medical support services available at SMH, such as laboratory, intensive care, physical, occupational and activity therapy.

The medical model for substance abuse treatment provides the basis for the DEAR program.

"We strongly believe there is a genetic tendency towards chemical addiction and the individual has to understand that so they will be able to deal with all the guilt that comes with it.

Roy and Dr. I. Garth McIver are the medical directors of the program.

however, are accepted when deemed appropriate by the admitting physician. Patients may be referred by a physician, community agency, industry, clergy, family, or self. Admissions are accepted 24 hours a day, seven days per week.

Additional information on the program may be obtained by calling Harnden at 649-8655, or by writing Slidell Memorial Hospital, 1001 Gause Blvd., Slidell, La. 70458, Attn: DEAR.

DEAR program director Betsy Harnden; Dr. A.K. Roy, center, and Dr. I.G. McIver, medical directors.

"The first step on the road to recovery is determining what you're up against," Roy added.

The Detoxification, Education Evaluation, Assessment and Referral (DEAR) Unit at Slidell Memorial Hospital and Medical Center is dedicated to providing referral to the appropriate level of care for the treatment of chemical dependency.

The seven-day program provides individualized treatment for alcohol and drug dependent

Now, Mobile Medic and Amserv protect your family all across the Gulf Coast and in the Hattiesburg area too.

Last year, Amserv and Mobile Medic joined forces to give your family year-round emergency ambulance protection all across the Gulf Coast.

This year, we've doubled our protection again. Thanks to a special agreement with AAA Ambulance of Hattiesburg, your $39 membership keeps your family protected throughout six counties in South Mississippi.

So if you're not a member, you now have twice as many reasons to join.

Join today, and your family will get ambulance service year-round, whenever you need it.

And the annual membership fee is still the same: Just $39.

Emergency care: No out-of-pocket expense to members...$425 to others.

A typical bill for ambulance service and emergency treatment runs around $425.

That's before you get your bills from the hospital, emergency room, or physician.

Your insurance or Medicare may only cover part of the cost. But your membership to Mobile Medic and Amserv covers the entire uninsured portion of your ambulance bill. You pay absolutely nothing above your membership fee.

And for an entire year, your membership covers you, your spouse, and all your unmarried children under 21 who live at home.

Why pay more for emergency care?

Mobile Medic and Amserv are the only ambulance services operating on the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

We handle emergency medical treatment for everyone in our area, including non-members.

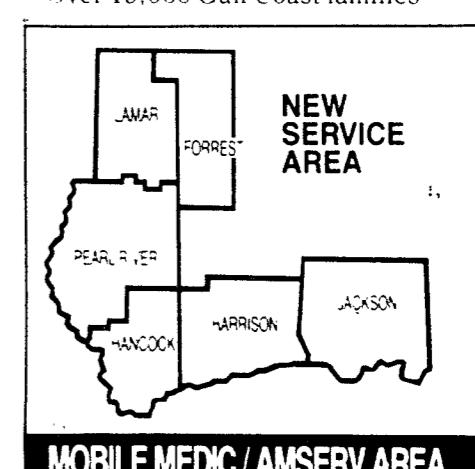

But while non-members pay for all treatment, supplies and ambulance service, our members pay no out-of-pocket expense above the annual $39 membership fee for local service.

If you call us only once in eleven years, your membership will have paid for itself. That's why it's smart to join now.

You must respond by July 31st.

We can only accept memberships once a year. This year's deadline is July 31st.

Over 15,000 Gulf Coast families

MOBILE MEDIC / AMSERV AREA

belong to either Mobile Medic or Amserv. And now that we've joined forces with AAA Ambulance, our members will be protected all across the Gulf Coast and in the Hattiesburg area as well. That's twice the protection, for one low price.

So we invite you to renew your membership now. Or to sign up with us for the first time, if you're not currently a member.

Fill out the application below and send it with your check today.

1988-89 Membership Application

BURY ME ALIVE
By Fr. Jerome LeDoux,
SVD

"Just bury me alive, if I ever stop caring for people," a friend told me recently as we pondered why practically no one was going to visit a mutual friend seriously ill in a hospital.

"Yes," I concurred. "If we don't care about anyone, there is simply nothing left for us down here on earth."

Bury me alive, if I do not take the time to visit my friends when they are well, and all the more when they are sick. Just bury me, because, if that is the case, I am already dead anyway.

If, as such lack of caring indicates, I show no inclination to deny myself a little in order to accommodate the physical, mental, emotional and spiritual needs of others, bury me alive.

Bury me alive, if I cease to be sensitive to what others are thinking, to what they are saying, to how they are feeling, to why and how much they are hurting, and to what they are needing.

If I am so insensitive to others and to where they are at a given moment in their life,

NEXT WEEK'S HOROSCOPE

BY SALOME

Weekly Tip: Help keep the peace.

Aries (Mar. 21-Apr. 19) Aggressiveness will open doors now. See those who count, as well as those who don't. Find time to enjoy recreations. A friend may give a helpful tip.

Taurus (Apr. 20-May 20) High spirits and abundant energy set your ambitions in motion. Let your instincts guide you for favorable results. Be lavish with praise when deserved.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) Make no hazardous speculations or enter games of chance. Concentrate on what you really want. Choices will be made now. Be prepared.

Cancer (June 21-Jul. 20) Put your thoughts into action. You get plenty of support from family, advisers and friends. It's a good time to find bargains and get the most you can.

Leo (Jul. 21-Aug. 22) A production period due to your high energy level is coming full circle, but keep spirits up. New friends may be added to your life. Entertain and enjoy.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Devote time and energy to your dear, and not so dear, friends. Activities swirl around you, but don't lose sight of what you have been working hard for.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Social trends are on the upswing. Be kind and considerate to others. Your foresight will help you reach the right decisions. Keep your mind open.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) Don't follow the crowd. Do your own thinking since success depends on your best judgment. Your patience may be repeatedly tested: show your stamina.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) You may need a boost from someone in a position of prominence. Put your thoughts into action. You have high hopes and aspirations to uphold.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Those you trust will help you make financial gains now. Don't become impatient or reckless when dealing with elders. Keep your mind relaxed.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Make yourself heard. You have fine things to say and others are interested. You have high aims and a great chance at reaching them. Keep your focus.

Pisces (Feb. 19-Mar. 20) Get all the facts straight before chastising someone. It's important to keep the home environment carefree and happy. Don't get bogged down now.

If you were born this week, you are the active sort and are often hard to keep track of. Unfortunately, this carries over into your business and personal lives wherein it is often hard to get a straight answer or decision out of you.

LILLIAN GISH

She is the 'first lady of the silent screen.' Her career began at the age of five, and she starred in a wide range of cinema, stage and television productions. She is Lillian Gish.

Gish, the recipient of an honorary Oscar in 1971, is profiled in footage from her legendary performances, including Birth of a Nation and The Wind, in 'American Masters: Lillian Gish' at 9 p.m., Monday, July 11, on Mississippi ETV.

Gish discusses her career and the man who directed many of her films—D. W. Griffith—whom she calls 'the father of film.'

bury me, because I am already dead anyway.

God forbid that I should put anyone down anywhere in the world, at any time, under any conditions. If I belittle anyone through my words or lack of words, through my actions or omissions, or through my attitudes, do not hesitate to bury me.

Go ahead and bury me, if I ever think that I am better than anyone else in the whole world. If I think that it is by my own merit that I am better off physically, mentally, emotionally, socially, financially or spiritually than anyone anywhere, just bury me. Obviously, I'll be already dead anyway.

Should I be foolish enough and cold enough to await eagerly, to pursue, to listen attentively to, and to spread the evil seeds of innuendo, of gossip and of character assassination, bury me.

Bury me alive, if I take pleasure in the misfortunes of any of my sisters or brothers any place on earth.

Surely, I am dead if I feel any joy when I see or hear that a fellow human is ill, has been injured, has suffered a loss, has been humiliated, is faring badly in family life, has been slandered, has failed in a venture, or is even faced with death.

Bury me alive, should I succumb to the poison of hatred by wishing evil—of any kind or degree—on any person. To the extent that I wish anyone bad luck, sickness, failure, embarrassment and disgrace, certainly I am dead.

In like manner, should I fail to wish good on anyone, bury me alive. You will know that I am dead if I do not wish health, comfort, peace, contentment and success on anyone anywhere.

Bury me alive, then, if I show no gratitude for the countless blessings which God has given me every hour of each day of my life. Bury me if I am ungrateful for the many things which my fellow humans have done for me from birth until now.

There is no doubt that, if I live without being thankful to God and people for what I am and have, I am quite dead already.

If I do not center my entire life around faith in God, hope in God, love for God, as well as faith in and respect and love for all my sisters and brothers, bury me alive.

Just bury me alive; if the most commonplace things in my life, let alone the spectacular, are not alive with the excitement, the joy and the appreciation of life itself and of all the goodness God has showered upon me and mine every single moment.

Hopefully, you will not have to bury me for any reason whatever. Let your and my life proclaim not burial but fullness in God.
